FORTY-SEVENTH YEAR, No. 1—10 Pages.

SIDNEY, Vancouver Island, B.C., Wednesday, January 7, 1959.

Subscriptions, in advance, year: $2.50; U.S., $3.00. Copy, 6c.

New Year's Baby At Ganges

First baby of the new year arrived at Lady Minto Gulf Islands hospital at 5:45 a.m. New Year's Day. The seven pound 11 ounce boy was born to Mrs. Robert E. Dodds, wife of the engineer on the R.C.M. Police boat at Ganges.

Both Constable Dodds and his wife, the former Dorothy Gyves, were born on Salt Spring Island. There are five older children: Robert, 16; Marie, 14; Donna, 12; Valerie, 6; and Linda, 4. The youngest son has been named Leonard Mark.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Auchterlonie (nee Grimmer), Pender Island, narrowly missed the honor of having the first child born in the year, when a daughter was born to them on New Year's Eve in the same hospital.

ENTERTAIN

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hulme, Beaufort Road, were among those in the district who entertained on New Year's Eve.

BUILDING PERMIT VALUES BOOSTED IN TWO AREAS

Value of building permits issued in 1958 showed a sharp increase over the previous year in both Central Saanich and Sidney, with the rate of advance in the village municipality being nearly double that of the larger area. Increase in Sidney was 61 per cent; in Central Saanich, 35.6 per cent.

SIDNEY
Total of 69 permits was issued in Sidney during the year, among them being 17 houses, one apartment building, one fourplex dwelling, the federal building addition, the new office of Saanich School District, and several miscellaneous additions and alterations. Total value of the permits was $341,215, compared with $211,497 in 1957, and $159,415 in 1956.

CENTRAL SAANICH
Construction in Central Saanich during 1958 was entirely residential, with permits issued for 50 new

Work on Wharf Starts

—At Sidney

Work is scheduled to start next week for the new ferry wharf at Sidney, despite the fact that the federal government has not yet acquired title to the village-owned property adjoining the wharf-site.

Negotiations were opened several months ago, and village authorities made arrangements to transfer more than five acres of the garbage disposal area to the federal authority to allow for development of parking and approach facilities for the wharf. So far, no move has been made by the government to either accept or reject the village offer to sell the property for $12,800.

Expected to cost about $300,000, the wharf will be used by both Washington State Ferries and the proposed provincial government ferry between Sidney and the B.C. mainland.

Whiskers Fall Victim To Year

AMOS NUNN—1958

AMOS NUNN—1959

Harold Nunn, of Graham Ave., better known as "Amos", has marked the opening of the new year by the removal of an impressive set of whiskers. Among the most luxurious growths to be found in the district during the centennial celebrations, the Amos beard lost out to the razor over the new year holiday. The picture on the left shows Amos Nunn as he appeared during centennial year. On the right is the native North Saanich carpenter as he now appears. The beard was in keen demand during the Christmas period as Amos was the only pseudo Santa Claus with a custom built beard. The pioneer pioneer resides on Graham Ave. with his wife and family.

First Claim To Last Bite Of Season

One visitor to The Review office left with a parting gift from the old year on Wednesday afternoon. He was Capt. M. D. A. Darling, of Deep Cove.

The gift was a lump on his neck and the donor was a mosquito but recently hatched out in Sidney. Capt. Darling was bitten on the neck as he entered the office.

He left the now defunct fly as a souvenir of his visit. He described it as the first of the season. It could equally be considered the last of the season.

Is this a record?

Smoke House Threatened By Blaze

Prompt action by Central Saanich Volunteer Fire Department is credited with keeping loss in a Saturday afternoon fire to a minimum.

The blaze broke out, from unknown cause, in the smoke house of the Stanlake and Young dock storage plant at Keating. Damage is estimated at $500.

Ken Stanlake, proprietor of the business who resides nearby, spoke to The Review of his sincere appreciation of the fast and efficient work of the firemen. "If they had not responded so quickly and tackled the blaze so aggressively, the loss would undoubtedly have been much greater."

Ferry Loses $3,000 In Six Weeks

During a period of six weeks in the latter part of 1958 the Brentwood-Mill Bay ferry cost nearly $3,000 more to operate than the revenue produced.

The sum of $2,982 has been paid by the provincial government in order to meet the deficit.

Period concerned was from October 21 until November 30. The payment is made in accordance with an agreement between the operating company, Coast Ferries Ltd., and the government. The ferry receives a subsidy on a month-to-month basis.

The company also operated the Lady Rose between the Gulf Islands and the mainland. A sister company, Gulf Islands Navigation Ltd., now operates the Island Princess on the Gulf Islands run.

Dog Catcher To Be Sought In Effort To Gain Control

Sidney village council is to advertise for a dog-catcher, in an effort to control the many loose animals which roam the area, it was decided at a meeting of the group Monday night.

Larocque Takes Over Public Works

New commissioner, J. H. Larocque was appointed chairman of the public works committee at the Sidney village council meeting Monday night. He assumes the position left vacant through the retirement of former commissioner A. A. Cormack.

Other village committees were unchanged. Commissioner T. A. Aiers remains at the head of the finance committee; Commissioner J. E. Boshier retains the health committee, and is representative on the Capital Region Planning Board and the North Saanich fire committee; and Commissioner Joseph Bilgeri is in charge of the village dump and sanitation.

AIERS SAYS FIRST MOVE BY COUNCIL IS "FARCE"

First action of the new Sidney village council was described as a "farce" and "a waste of paper", at the first 1959 meeting of the group Monday night. The remarks were made when the council considered the provisional budget for the year.

"We must present this provisional budget here to comply with the Municipal Act," said Commissioner T. A. Aiers, chairman of the finance committee. "The actual budget will come in April, and the figures given here will be considerably altered."

"You don't have to file it with the government, nor even accept it," Village Clerk A. W. Sharp advised the council. "It just has to be read."

It's just a waste of paper." "An absolute farce," agreed Mr. Aiers.

The budget estimated that total village expenditures for 1959 would be $60,150.

HOUSE PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Adamson, Moxam Terrace, entertained friends at a cocktail party, Sunday afternoon.

Sidney Grist Retires From Department

Resident engineer at Patricia Bay Airport for the past 10 years, Sidney Grist retired at the year's end, after 17 years service with the department of transport.

At a gathering of fellow-employees held on Tuesday, Dec. 30, his 66th birthday, Mr. Grist received a hi-fi record player as a parting gift. The popular engineer, who has supervised the preliminary work in connection with the current runway improvements, will continue with the department in an advisory capacity until the work is finished.

Mr. Grist's successor as resident engineer at the airport is Don McKay, who has been transferred to Patricia Bay from Prince George.

Presentation To Retiring Commissioner

Retired Sidney village commissioner A. A. Cormack was the surprised recipient of an engraved silver pitcher at the first meeting of the new council on Monday night. He was attending the meeting as an interested ratepayer.

"In appreciation of your very extensive labors, I present you this gift on behalf of the people of Sidney and this council," said Chairman Dr. C. H. Hemmings, in making the presentation.

"I really did enjoy my two years on the council," Mr. Cormack answered. "I feel that our legislation was well received by the ratepayers. Sidney made definite strides forward, and I am happy I had a part in it."

Inscription on the pitcher reads: "Presented to A. A. Cormack by the Sidney Village Council in appreciation of his services as commissioner 1956-1958."

Forces Entry To Home, Finds Woman's Body

Body of Mrs. Bessie G. Randall, Queens Ave., was discovered in her home on Monday afternoon by Sidney R.C.M.P. Constable Roger Post, who had been called by Mrs. D. C. Fink, public health nurse. It has not been determined how long Mrs. Randall, who lived alone, was dead before the discovery was made. Last time she was seen by neighbors was on Friday, Jan. 2.

Born in St. John, N.B., 39 years ago, the late Mrs. Randall moved to Sidney from Salt Spring Island several years ago. Many years of her early life were spent in Whitehorse and at Barkerville, where her late husband was government agent. During the First World War, she served in the ambulance corps in France.

Mrs. Fink, who had been attending the aged woman for some time, was unable to get an answer when she called on her last visit. She entered the locked house by forcing a window. He found the body lying on the kitchen floor, guarded by the dog and cat which were Mrs. Randall's only companions in her declining years. Her only known relatives are in Ottawa.

Unexpected Visit

M.V. Nookin Prince, formerly the Princess of Alberni, made an unscheduled stop at Sidney last week.

On its return to Vancouver, following the last trip to the West Coast of Vancouver Island, the vessel made a landing at Sidney in order that Chief Engineer O. H. Henrickson, Shorecrews Road, might be spared the extra time involved in a return journey from the mainland, giving him a few more hours with his family during the festive season.

Sylvia Displays Product

Sylvia Stacey requires little dieting to maintain her figure as she demonstrates a carton of Liquid Magic just prepared in the laboratory at Deep Cove. The new product is designed to enable an overweight person to reduce without losing nutrition. It is marketed by the Deep Cove firm of Stacey's Laboratories, founded by the young lady in the picture and her husband, R. W. Stacey.

DIET SYSTEM LAUNCHED

Lean Men and Svelte Women Product of New Business

Weldon Stacey of Deep Cove, has launched a new product aimed at the reduction of weight among his customers. A former fur farmer, now employed by T.C.A. at Patricia Bay Airport, he has established a laboratory at his home for the production of a dietary treatment of obesity.

The laboratory is largely the responsibility of his wife, Sylvia, who is as convinced of the merits of the new product, Liquid Magic, as is Weldon himself, who has taken the course.

Native son of North Saanich, the new businessman was overweight. He recalls attempting many forms of treatment before finding a solution in a diet he prepared himself. From his own experience he claims weight losses of up to 20 pounds and more monthly can be achieved without prejudicing the health. He also produces medical support of his treatment.

READY MADE

Since his successful attack on obesity Weldon Stacey has urged many to undertake the same course. His enquiries ascertained that while many were interested few were prepared to go to the trouble of preparing the material themselves. His new project offers the diet in cartons, each representing a day's supply. The sponsor of the treatment also offers a printed guide to the diet and a recommendation of the foods which may be taken with confidence while undertaking a diet and those which must be avoided.

The new project has met with considerable success and the sponsors anticipate a community of lean men and svelte women within the course of months.

GOOD RUNS REPORTED

Christmas No Bar To Fish As Angling Draws Crowds

By GINNIE BEARDSLEY
December fishing was good in Brentwood Bay. Harry Gilbert, a veteran of more than 30 years in the boat business in the Bay, calls this winter's angling the best he has seen.

In recognition of the growing interest in off-season fishing, several of Victoria's sporting goods firms have contributed trophies to be awarded monthly for the biggest of the winter springs caught by a member of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Angling Association.

Winner for the past month was Victor Humphreys of Wark St., Victoria, whose salmon weighed in at 15 pounds 15 ounces. Breathing down his neck and barely inched out for the top honor was Robert Hamilton, Sr., of Anchorage, whose spring tipped the scales at one ounce less.

Seventeen-pounders were landed by two visiting anglers, Clarence Bakerfield of Seattle, and the party of Mr. and Mrs. "Bo" Smith of Dalhousie, Alberta, both fishing with Jim Creed.

FISH AND FILM

Also chartered from Creed's was R. Lachemmer, a sports telecaster from Portland, staying at the Hotel Sidney, who took several blackbacks and about 100 feet of film for his program. Empress Hotel assistant manager George Bradford and daughter, Carol, were also out fishing, took two springs, and discussed plans for offering a trophy open to competition by guests of the hotel. Joe Nordal of Redwood and Embassy Courts caught himself a batch of blackbacks.

But the biggest salmon of the month, a 23-pound spring, was quietly caught by Ernie Olson of the West Saanich Reserve. A party of four, guided by Tommy Moss the day before Christmas, brought back 16 salmon, five of which were in the 12 to 16-pound range.

AN ERA ENDS

In Sidney's Ferry History

An era in Sidney's life has come to an end with the retirement from the service of Washington State Ferries of Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Chappuis, well known Sidney residents.

"With the growing of this popular ferry run traveling every year, we have decided that it's a job for younger hands," Mr. Chappuis told The Review this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Chappuis started their ferry service here in 1947 with the old Black Ball line—she selling tickets and he organizing the ferry lineups. They transferred over to the service of State of Washington Ferries when the changeover occurred.

School Concert

A very enjoyable Christmas concert was staged by the pupils of McTavish Road school on the evening of December 18.

Hard work of the two teachers, Miss Chamberline and Mrs. Richardson and the new stage donated by the P.T.A. and built by Mr. Taylor, Mr. Currie and Mr. Christensen contributed to its success.

After a very good program of plays, dancing and singing, the evening closed with a draw won by G. Brown, Mrs. Few and Mrs. Townsend.

WAS CLEOPATRA A BLONDE OR BRUNETTE?

There is just as much reason for supposing that Cleopatra was a blonde as there is for supposing she was a brunette; (Copr. 1957—U. Features Syndicate) however, it should be pointed out that popular conception is that she was a decided brunette. It should also be remembered that she was often referred to as the "dark queen of Egypt".

Mark 50th Year of Marriage At Vancouver Gathering

In honor of Mr. and Mrs. W. Booth, who celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on December 30, a reception was held at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Booth, Chancellor Ave., Vancouver.

Present for the occasion were their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. Booth, of Ganges; daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Fleming, of Ottawa; seven grandchildren and approximately 40 friends.

DENCROSS TERRACE COUPLE CELEBRATE 40th ANNIVERSARY

Flower girl at the wedding of Lieut. and Mrs. J. E. Mason, sister of the groom Mrs. J. E. Sullivan of Seattle was among those present when the Dencross Terrace couple celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary on Monday, Dec. 22. Accompanying Mrs. Sullivan was her daughter, Mrs. D. Rupert.

Celebration was arranged by a daughter of Lieut. and Mrs. Mason, Mrs. A. K. McAdams of Nelson, who attended with her husband and four children. Also present was another daughter, Mrs. W. H. Barclay of Esquimalt, who was accompanied by her husband and two sons. Congratulatory phone calls were received from a son, Chief Petty Officer J. P. Mason of Cornwallis, N.S., and from a nephew, Flying Officer R. DeNaeyer of Honolulu.

Mrs. McAdam and family remained in the district for the Christmas holiday, during which they accompanied Lieut. and Mrs. Mason on a journey to Courtenay, where they visited their youngest daughter, Mrs. A. R. Jorgenson, and saw a recent arrival, their 12th grandchild.

Legend has it that before the Crucifixion the berries of Christmas holly were white instead of red as now.

Mark 50th Year of Marriage At Vancouver Gathering

Mr. and Mrs. Booth were married 50 years ago at St. Mark's church, South Farnborough, England. They came to Canada in 1911 and settled in Winnipeg, where Mr. Booth retired as an automobile engineer 10 years ago.

Before coming to Sidney six months ago, they spent some time at Ganges. Mr. Booth is fond of gardening and carpentry work, while Mrs. Booth enjoys needlework.

They are both great boosters for Sidney, finding the people most friendly, and the sales people in the stores very cordial.

EXTENDED FACILITIES ARE PLANNED AT DOMINION EXPERIMENTAL STATION HERE

Tenders have been called for a $25,000 agronomy building for the Experimental Farm at Saanichton. This will be a two-level building—the lower floor measuring 40 by 80 feet, and the upper level measuring 20 by 80 feet, each floor having ground level entrance.

The lower floor plan includes a main area for seed threshing and cleaning, storage of equipment, a drying room for forage crop samples and storage room. The main floor includes a soil and tissue grinding room, where soil and tissue samples are prepared for chemical analysis, a seed laboratory, two offices for record work, and a lunch room.

The building will be of frame construction on a concrete foundation. It will replace two sheds that have been in use for many years, one measuring 20 by 42 feet built in 1917, and the second measuring 20 by 24 feet built in 1930. This construction programme will give much needed modern facilities in the research work in the departments of plant nutrition, agronomy, field husbandry and illustration stations.

LOCAL MANUFACTURE
The threshing machines installed in the seed cleaning room are types that have been built at the Experimental Farm to handle more especially plant material from experimental plots and consist of a portable machine with a 20-inch cylinder, a recently designed flail type threshing for large seeded crops, such as peas and beans, and a rod-row cereal plot thresher.

Seed cleaning equipment consists of the conventional types of commercial machines.

The main item in the drying room is what is commonly called a Unitherm drier. This is an English-built piece of equipment especially designed to dry forage crop material—mainly grasses and legumes—to determine the dry weight of material, which gives an indication of feed value.

From dried material, protein analysis is calculated which is a further refinement of the feeding value of forage material. The drier is heated with 12 built-in one-k.w. heaters, operated at approximately 100 deg. Fah. and dries 96 one-pound samples of green matter in eight hours.

GRINDING ROOM

The grinding room is where soil is powdered and plant tissue ground to the consistency of flour in preparation for soil and plant tissue analysis.

These analyses are done in the plant nutrition laboratory which is part of the main office building.

The present-day concept of soil analysis is different to what it was in the past and consists primarily of an effort to classify the fertilizer requirements through chemical analysis of different soil types of which there are 28 in the agricultural group on Vancouver Island.

It can be expected with elements such as phosphorus, potash and others, that soil types vary; for instance, those soils that give no response, those that give a medium response and those that give a high response to given elements.

This basic type of research is far more definite than to apply fertilizer elements to the same types of soil and find varying responses as the actual response in such cases, will depend very largely on the farm practices which have been followed, on the crop being grown and on the seasonal growing conditions. This type of work leads to no final answer as has been abundantly found in the many field tests conducted in the past.

SOIL ANALYSIS

The analysis of plant tissue leads to the same general concept as soil analysis. The method involved requires taking foliage from trees or plants and subjecting it to chemical analysis for such elements as nitrogen, phosphorus, potash, magnesium and calcium and determine the percentage of the elements present.

Over a period of years it is practical to establish the percentage of a given element present in the foliage of a healthy productive plant, such as a fruit tree, and where growth is not satisfactory, it can be determined which element is lacking.

A specific problem at the present time is to establish nutrient levels in holly foliage, hoping to come up with an answer for the damaging leaf fall that occurs variously from fall until late winter. Foliage from good healthy pear trees analyzes approximately: nitrogen, two per cent; potash, one per cent; phosphorus, 0.2 per cent; magnesium, 0.3 per cent. While a level for all elements in holly has not been worked out, the nitrogen figure is approximately three per cent.

I wonder what has happened to Marcel?

Marcel, with the pipe stem arms and legs, the pinched little face, and big black eyes—eyes that should have been filled with childlike wonder, but looked at you with fear and distrust.

I first met Marcel in Caen. He was howling his head off. He had good reason. His mother and father were under the rubble of what was once their home. It was our side that bombed and shelled Marcel's home into oblivion.

The Jerries, a few hundred yards away, were trying to hold the river Orne and making it hot for all and sundry in the district. I grabbed Marcel from the open and dragged him down before he got picked off by mortar shell.

There was nobody in this city of death to claim the waif so we kept him with us.

QUICKLY AT HOME

Like any kid of that age, he quickly adapted himself to new conditions. His little legs were covered with sores, probably from lack of nutrition. He didn't play like our kids do; he just didn't seem to have the energy.

It was surprising what a difference a few weeks of good grub made to that kid. He put on weight and started to romp around. In no time, he was the idol of the unit. But, even though he fattened up and played, that look of fear and uncertainty never left his eyes.

I suppose the psychologists would say that the kid will always have

BRENTWOOD

Mr. and Mrs. D. Campbell celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Wednesday, the last day of the year, at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Campbell, Verdier Ave. The rooms looked lovely with the beautiful flowers received by the happy couple. They also received congratulations and good wishes from their many friends near and far.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Burdon, Clark Road, have had as their guests for the holidays, their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Isaac from Alberta, also their friend, Albert Parsons. Both Mr. Isaac and Mr. Parsons are in the R.C.A.F., stationed at Cold Lake. They returned home last Friday.

Mrs. Vera Walls, West Saanich Road, has returned home after spending a few weeks with her daughter and son-in-law at Belmont Park, who are receiving congratulations on the birth of a baby daughter, a sister for their three sons.

some of this feeling in his lifetime. He may even grow up to be an unstable citizen.

The time came for us to leave Marcel with us. The French by this time had a sort of provisional government set-up. So, we reluctantly passed him over to the authorities.

The last time I saw Marcel, he was standing in the street waving forlornly as we moved away.

That was 14 years ago. Today Marcel should be a young man. I wonder what kind of citizen he turned out to be. I suppose I will never know.

Stricken While Fishing In Brentwood Bay—Succumbs

Following a private service at the Royal Oak Crematorium, the ashes of Peter Norman Stewart, a sea captain's son who spent 46 years on the prairies, were scattered over Brentwood Bay, where he lived and fished in his retirement years, and where he died as he would have wished: in his boat.

"Pete" Stewart, as he was called by all who knew him, retired as yardmaster of the Transcona Freight Yards, near Winnipeg, six years ago and came to Brentwood, where he was one of the keenest of hobby fishermen. Under treatment for a cardiac condition for some time, Mr. Stewart shut off the engine of his boat when he was stricken, Ron Morrison and Ken Boddington, fishing in a craft from Brentwood Boat Rentals, heard Mr. Stewart's call for help and towed his boat ashore, where he was pronounced dead.

TO LIVE HERE

Mrs. Eva Winifred Stewart, his widow, plans to continue to live in Brentwood where she has many friends, and to carry on with private coaching of students reading for examinations.

Other surviving relatives of Mr.

Superlative!

Imagine . . . golden crusted tender rolls made with tangy sour cream! Easy? Definitely, when the yeast is Fleischmann's Active Dry! If you bake at home, bake a pan of these distinctive dinner rolls.

Sour Cream Finger Rolls

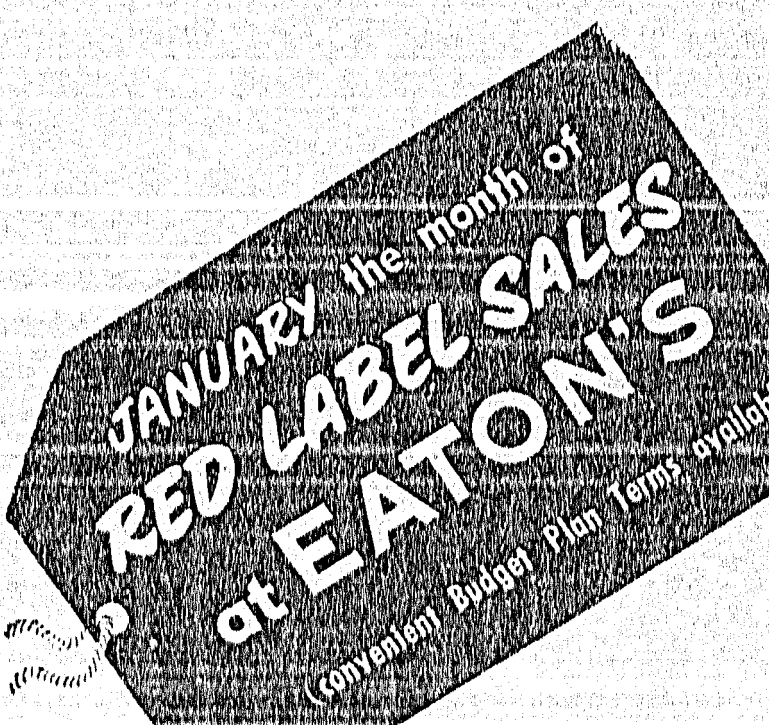

1. Scald 1/2 pint (1 1/4 cups) commercial sour cream. Stir in 3 tablespoons granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine. Cool to lukewarm.
2. Measure into large bowl 1/2 cup lukewarm water. Stir in 1 teaspoon granulated sugar. Sprinkle with contents of 1 envelope Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast. Let stand 10 minutes, THEN stir well.
3. Turn out on floured board and knead until smooth and elastic. Work in an additional 1 1/2 cups (about) once-sifted all-purpose flour. Turn out on floured board and knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl. Grease top. Cover. Let rise in a warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk—about 1 1/2 hours.
4. Punch down dough. Turn out on lightly-floured board and knead until smooth. Divide dough into 3 equal portions; shape each portion into a 12-inch roll and cut into 12 equal pieces. Shape each piece of dough into a roll about 3 inches long. Arrange, about an inch apart, on greased cookie sheets. Grease tops. Cover. Let rise until doubled in bulk—about 40 minutes. Bake in a hot oven, 400°, about 14 minutes. Yield—3 dozen finger rolls.

CLOSED SHOP

ACTION taken recently by the B.C. School Trustees' Association in company with the B.C. School Teachers' Federation is the final step towards the closed shop in the teaching profession. The two groups have established jointly a policy for listing teacher vacancies in their own pamphlets and publications and urge the exclusion of newspaper listing except late in the season or in case of emergency.

Now, it could well be argued by the critic that this is a matter of sour grapes and that we are opposing the recommendation on the grounds that it threatens our revenues. The Review is one of the few newspapers which is able to take a stand in opposition to the plan without concerning itself over the economic aspect. There are always teachers anxious to secure posts in this area. This newspaper derives so little revenue from this form of advertising that any loss would be less than sufficient to buy a packet of cigarettes.

The situation is of concern to us in respect of the wording of the trustees' resolution. The resolution opens in these terms: "Whereas newspaper advertising of teaching position vacancies is costly..." We would contend that this statement is not only absurd, but that cost can only be comparative. With what are we to compare it? While we recognize that our costs of production are beyond those of some businesses we cannot submit to the suggestion that our costs are below those of the critic in this case.

In comparison with the costs of education, surely the cost of newspaper advertising is absurdly low.

There is a second aspect which is of wider and far more serious import. A restricted advertising of teaching positions means that only those within the inner circle of the teachers' lodge will be permitted to learn of vacancies arising. Irrespective of how good a teacher an applicant may be, he may only teach provided he has paid his dues. This is a fait accompli. Now, however, the able applicant must pay his dues before he is permitted to know what vacancies exist. This is a measure unlikely to gain the confidence of the general public or to contribute to the well-being of the student left to the tender mercies of a system which protects the public servant at all costs... even advertising costs.

AGING DRIVERS

A FEW weeks before the festive Yuletide season, this column raised a verbal cudgel against unnecessary red tape and expense in connection with the re-licensing of men and women whose life span has exceeded three score and ten. It was pointed out that such drivers were required to visit a medical practitioner twice each year and pay his perfectly normal fee for undergoing a physical examination: once for the provincial government's motor vehicle branch authority, and once for the automobile insurance company. We contended this was unnecessarily costly and cumbersome.

The next week we were corrected by our good friend Justin Harbord, reputable Victoria insurance man. His companies, he emphasized, do not require a medical examination for renewal of policies of aged drivers. This was good news. We welcome Mr. Harbord's assurances—and devoutly hope that all insurance companies will follow suit.

This leaves, of course, only one medical examination per annum—that to ensure that a driver over the age of 70 is physically fit to drive. This is only common sense and protects not only the aging driver but all other drivers. But a copy of the form to be filled out by the medical man has been forwarded to this office. The layman will easily be convinced that it is unnecessarily complete. The provincial government should take a "second look" at this form. It may be that such a glance would indicate that it is far too searching and trying on the aging motorist.

A NEW DEPARTURE

NOVEL change introduced by Central Saanich council this year will arouse little general comment. The council will in future hold its meetings in the afternoon instead of the evening as has been the case hitherto.

Although attendance at council meetings by the general public has always been high in Central Saanich in comparison with the majority of municipalities, there are few ratepayers who make a point of attending meetings unless some consideration is to be given to a matter of close personal interest.

Any inconvenience arising from meetings is usually borne by the council members themselves. If they can all find it convenient to attend in the afternoon there is no question but that the arrangement is an easier one for most people concerned.

Last voice to be raised in objection is that of the reporter. The new routine represents the opportunity to spend one more evening each month in the bosom of his family and such an engagement is rare indeed when a community is active as are Central Saanich and the rest of the Peninsula.

Reflections From the Past

10 YEARS AGO
Sidney Hotel, a 50-year-old building owned by S. Fyving and managed by Harry Bellingham, was totally destroyed by fire, with loss estimated at $75,000. Sidney and North Saanich Volunteer Fire Department was assisted in controlling the blaze by crews from Saanich Fire Department and the Department of Transport at Patricia Bay Airport.

Willard W. Michell was re-elected by acclamation to the presidency of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society.

Search was being conducted on Salt Spring Island for a mysterious, bearded stranger, who attempted to wrest a gun from the hands of a Casheen Lake resident, then fled into the woods.

20 YEARS AGO

Sidney horticulturalist C. W. Stirling took first prize for Brown Maple pens at the Chicago Seed Fair. In a class for small pens, with a variety which he had developed himself, Mr. Stirling took second prize. In yet another class, with ancestry of his developments, the Stirling pen, he took third place. First and second prizes in this class also went to growers of Stirling pens.

30 YEARS AGO

Mr. Ramsay, Sidney school teacher, was advised by the provincial agronomist that Fred Muslow's seed exhibit had been selected for competition in boys and girls seed exhibits at the Winter Fair held in Victoria.

CYCLISTS

Editor, Review,
Sir,

When I am driving my car after dark in this district, or indeed anywhere on "The Peninsula", I often suddenly notice a cyclist just ahead of me. So far I have seen them just in time, to avoid driving into, or over them.

I do not know what the law may be about "lights" on bicycles, but I do know that I have driven for 30 years, in several of the provinces of Canada, without an accident, but I am not sure how much longer I can keep up this "clean record" if cyclists are not forced to maintain adequate lights, particularly on the rear of the bike, for their own safety and for my continued peace of mind!

FLUORIDATION

Editor, Review,
Sir,

Freedom of choice seems to be so closely connected with the question of fluoridation of water that it appears to me to be a matter for serious consideration. Just recently a friend who lives in a district where fluoridation has been enforced asked me for a glass of water. He drank that pure water as though it had been the most priceless elixir. This man thought that fluoridated water was harmful. It made me wonder if it was fair to have fluoridation of water imposed upon one who feels it is harmful to the health. Is this not in a sense robbing the individual of his freedom of choice?

It would seem a far cry from the simple act of imposing the fluoridation of water upon citizens to the forcing of religious laws, and yet at its source, it seems to me to restrict freedom of choice to a certain extent. We are privileged in this country to choose any religion, or no religion if we so desire. We know that in matters pertaining to religion the minority should never be imposed upon by the majority, for religion is a concern solely between God and man. Now the preservation of health is regarded by some as a religious duty. These ones take Paul's admonition in 1 Corinthians 10:31; very seriously "Whether therefore ye eat, or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God."

This question of fluoridation may seem a small matter, but if it robs the individual of his freedom of choice even in the slightest degree it would seem to me somewhat akin to intolerance. Small beginnings may lead to large issues.

ANOMALOUS SITUATION

Editor, Review,
Sir,

On December 6 Mr. Harry Young, the business editor of the Victoria Colonist, reported on the attempted sale of the control of the British Aluminium Company by its board of directors to a foreign-owned company, and the important precedent established by Britain's Chancellor of the Exchequer in refusing to sanction this sale until the shareholders of the company had been consulted. As Mr. Young astutely points out: "In these days when the rights of the shareholders are proving more theoretical than practical, it is timely that the British Chancellor should order that the shareholders should be consulted."

In our province of British Columbia a similar anomalous situation has developed. We, the shareholders of British Columbia, elected certain men as our representatives, or directors, to conduct the business of our province. These directors have permitted foreign interests to send in experts to investigate and examine the resources of a vast region roughly one-tenth of the total area of British Columbia. Is the control of this tenth of our assets, which may with development prove a much larger percentage, to be turned over to these foreign interests without fully informing us and obtaining our consent as shareholders of British Columbia?

There are other questions to which we, as shareholders, are entitled answers. Who is Wenner Gren? Have his past actions been such as to inspire confidence in his business dealings? A few years ago he had a comparable scheme for the development of a large area of Rhodesia. Why were these arrangements suddenly terminated? Did the Rhodesian government discover some clause or omission in the contract would permit this foreign philanthropist to operate outside the mineral laws of that country? Can a Canadian government not obtain this information from a sister member of the Commonwealth?

The dazzling monetary offer appears to have been replaced by plans for a hydro-electric power development on the Peace River. If this is such a desirable project at this time why is the B.C. Power Commission not undertaking it for the citizens of British Columbia? However, a vice-president of the B.C. Electric Company is reported as stating that "whatever the cost of power from the Peace River and its tributaries, and however attractive it might be for heavy industries nearby, it is by no means assured that surplus power from the area could be transmitted economically and prudently to the lower mainland."

to produce power which cannot be sold in a competitive market, or is this money to be raised on other natural resources the company hopes to exploit? Little mention has been made of the mineral resources of this vast area. What mineral concessions have been granted or implied in the arrangements between the B.C. government and the Wenner Gren B.C. Development Company?

The resources of this area belong to the province of British Columbia. As shareholders in the province we are entitled to our rights. The foregoing questions should be answered, and the offering price disclosed to us. The Premier assures us that "nothing is being given away." It would not be the first time that valuable assets have been sold for a few cents on the dollar. Let us demand this information, and then insist on this voice at the bargaining table.

"The Grey Seas Under," by Farley Mowat. McLelland - Stewart. 340 pp.

There is something about the sea which appeals to almost every man. This is very clearly evidenced by the fact that a large number of the recruits to the navy are men from the prairie provinces; many of whom have never seen the sea in their lives.

The same appeal is to be found in stories of the sea. There is something approaching the magnificent about the battle between man and marine disasters. The history of seamanship is the saga of heroism and nonchalance in face of death.

"The Grey Seas Under" is no exception to this rule. The book brings to its pages the living moment of emergency and the reader can feel the wind-lashed seas spraying his face. The appeal of the sea is drawn from the story of Foundation Franklin, a sea-going tug on the east coast. The sense of reality and vivid life is directly attributable to the masterful pen of Farley Mowat.

There is nothing in the casual appearance of the book to indicate its nature. It appears as the story of a salvage tug operating out of Newfoundland and Nova Scotia ports. It is the diary of hundreds of rescues at sea. It is the story of the rise to prosperity of a small salvage company and the men who served that company. It is essentially the tale of the Franklin and its fortunate selection of officers and men.

The Franklin started out in life as the Frisky, a Royal Navy tug put into commission at the close of the First World War and shortly afterwards "sold foreign", to sail under the Scandinavian flag. An iron ship, she was rescued from abandonment when a Canadian company started to look for a vessel to launch its salvage operations. They found the vessel for the job and in short order found the men to handle her.

There is the story of the tug herself, indomitable and unshakable. There is the story of her owners, now to the business and inclined to vaunt as she entered her new service. There is the story of the big businesses already established in marine affairs who took measures to ascertain that their interests were not threatened by a new comer. There is the story of the navy and the bitter battle between the tugmen and the naval men. There is the story of the men who served in her and the Franklin's running fight to assist the shipping in difficulties in the western ocean. All these stories lead up to one of the best sea stories to appear in years. It is difficult to make comparisons between a factual tale of rescue and salvage work in one section of the world's sea lanes and a fictional account of incidents at sea. Nevertheless, there is no doubt but that this story will rank at the top of all sea tales and it will gain stature from the fact that there was a Foundation Franklin and the names of the ships she rescued have

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

When British Columbia Was Born

A flint-hearted sea captain almost scuttled the founding of Kamloops by marooning its discoverer on the Falkland Islands.

It happened in 1810—48 years before the birth of British Columbia, 33 years before the founding of Victoria and five years after the first white settlement on the mainland was begun at Fort McLeod.

It was 1810 when 45-year-old David Stuart of Perth, Scotland, joined the New York fur enterprise of John Jacob Astor and was sent by ship around the Horn to open new trade routes in the Pacific Northwest.

The ship was the Tonquin and disaster dogged its wake, apparently due to the bullying manner of her captain, Jonathon Thorn. Thorn and Stuart had a falling out. While the ship laid over at the Falklands, Stuart and eight others went ashore. Thorn sailed away without them until Stuart's brother with a loaded gun forced his return.

Thorn got his "communique" at Nootka when he lost patience with an Indian chief and reportedly threw him overboard. In the ensuing battle the ship was blown up and all aboard died.

Luckily for Kamloops, David Stuart and his party had landed earlier at the mouth of the Columbia River where Fort Astoria (later Fort George) was founded in 1811. In 1812, Stuart ascended the Columbia and penetrated the Okanagan, finally locating a post for his company at the confluence of the North and South Thompson Rivers.

It was built on the south shore of the South Thompson actually, and was named Shuswap Fort after the local tribe. The Canadian North West Company in whose employ Simon Fraser, Alexander Mackenzie and David Thompson had opened New Caledonia a few years before, absorbed the Astoria Company in 1813 and built a new post on the north shore of the North Thompson, also at the confluence.

It was named Fort Thompson. Both the fort and the rivers honored David Thompson, the mapmaker of the west, although he never sighted nor charted the area. Simon Fraser was responsible for the error. The Indians had told him Thompson all appeared on the registers. The story is sufficiently real to bring to the reader the realization of disaster which saw the end of the tale and to have him share the satisfaction of the men who sailed in her that the end was as noble as the history which preceded it.

This is one of the few books that you cannot afford to miss.—F.G.R.

"Edwardian Cars", by Ernest F. Carter. Foulis. 244 pp.

This is a book for the connoisseur. It is specifically geared to the enthusiast who collects models or information on the early cars to appear on the roads of the world with particular emphasis on Britain. It is written by a collector who speaks at length of his rebuilt 1908 Renault. In a breezy, anecdotal style, the author moves from one marque to another. He compares many different types of vehicles no longer on the market.

EXPERIMENTAL FARM NOTES

WEEKLY REPORT OF NORTH SAANICH STATION

DAFFODIL STORAGE

Experiments at Saanichton have shown that a low temperature is best for storage of daffodil flowers when holding longer than ten days.

The first experiments in this connection showed, for example, that 33 degrees storage was superior to 36 or 39 degrees.

Then, in 1955, when 30 degrees was tried for the first time, a dry pack held at 30 degrees was shown to be the best all-round method. This was based on results that showed (1) such flowers lasted longer following their storage period, (2) the method was less laborious and (3) storage space was more effectively utilized. At that time it was pointed out however, that the favourable results with 30-degree storage was based on a very limited number of flowers and on one variety only and it was therefore suggested that small scale commercial trials should precede the final acceptance of the results.

UNSATISFACTORY

Subsequent to the 1955 experiment and reports of successful storage of daffodils in the United States at 28 degrees F., an experiment was conducted at Saanichton in which King Alfred daffodils were stored fairly successfully at 28 degrees for 10 days. It thus appeared that the possibilities of 28-degree storage had been overlooked and further investigation was needed. With this in mind three storage levels, 28, 30 and 32 degrees F., using the variety King Alfred, were compared in 1958. Results from this experiment which brings the daffodil storage investigations up to date, showed that lasting quality of the flowers in all treatments was totally unsatisfactory regardless of the fact that the data indicated a LIMITED degree of survival and usefulness.

It is noteworthy that the 1958 results represent an almost complete reversal of previous results. Why in 1955 King Alfred daffodil flowers stored successfully at 30 degrees for 30 days, subsequently lasting 2½ days on the average while in 1958 they lasted a mere one day following 32 degrees storage for 20 days appears to defy explanation. Especially would this appear so when it is pointed out that the conditions for

At that time it was pointed out however, that the favourable results with 30-degree storage was based on a very limited number of flowers and on one variety only and it was therefore suggested that small scale commercial trials should precede the final acceptance of the results.

UNSATISFACTORY

Subsequent to the 1955 experiment and reports of successful storage of daffodils in the United States at 28 degrees F., an experiment was conducted at Saanichton in which King Alfred daffodils were stored fairly successfully at 28 degrees for 10 days. It thus appeared that the possibilities of 28-degree storage had been overlooked and further investigation was needed. With this in mind three storage levels, 28, 30 and 32 degrees F., using the variety King Alfred, were compared in 1958. Results from this experiment which brings the daffodil storage investigations up to date, showed that lasting quality of the flowers in all treatments was totally unsatisfactory regardless of the fact that the data indicated a LIMITED degree of survival and usefulness.

It is noteworthy that the 1958 results represent an almost complete reversal of previous results. Why in 1955 King Alfred daffodil flowers stored successfully at 30 degrees for 30 days, subsequently lasting 2½ days on the average while in 1958 they lasted a mere one day following 32 degrees storage for 20 days appears to defy explanation. Especially would this appear so when it is pointed out that the conditions for storage and for determining lasting quality were similar in both years. The inference is that the difference is attributed to seasons. In this connection the 1958 season, it will be recalled, was abnormally mild both prior to and during the flower cutting season and characterized by heavy winds which whipped the flowers, therefore it is possible the flowers were a poorer storage risk than was the case previously.

It now appears the best storage is the safest kind of storage. This means 33 degrees F. Twenty days at 33 degrees is the maximum limit for safe storage of King Alfred flowers. Flowers standing in water at 33 degrees is a better method than the dry pack for 20-day storage. For 10-day storage, dry pack and standing in water have given almost identical lasting quality. Only the best grade of flowers should be used for storage.

STRAWBERRY SEEDLINGS

Soil inoculated with several strains of the strawberry root-rot Red Stele, was placed in one of the growth chambers developed by the Agricultural Engineering department of the Saanichton Experimental Farm. The soil was put in polythene-lined benches and watered regularly to produce the damp poorly drained conditions which favor development of red stele. The temperature was maintained at 55 degrees F. under the bank of fluorescent lights. These conditions gave good infection of red stele and adequate growth of seedlings. Seedlings were planted in the bench at 2 inch by 2 inch spacing in September 1958 and harvested in December 1958.

At harvest time the seedlings were dug, washed and visually evaluated for root-rot. They were graded into five classes of varying degrees of infection based on the number and amount of roots discolored. For simplification, only the number saved and per cent saved are recorded below.

The majority of the seedlings were discarded, in fact only 95 seedlings representing 6 crosses were saved out of 1016 seedlings and 40 crosses.

It is worthwhile to note that in five of the crosses Magoon was present and Climax in four. This confirms earlier work on the resistance to local strains of red stele by these two parents. Many supposedly resistant varieties when used as a parent did not show resistance. These included Talisman, Cambridge Early, C. Rival, C. Sentry, Vermilion, Stelemaster, Temple, Silletz and Md. 683. The varieties Sparkle and Red Crop occasionally appeared in resistant crosses as did British Sovereign but only when used with Magoon or Climax or Magoon or Climax crosses.

The growth chamber is an excellent tool for obtaining the exacting conditions favoring both red stele development and seedling growth. It provides for a much higher rate and severity of infection than was available in greenhouse test benches. The system also provides for quicker results as only three or four months and possibly less are required for infection and the tests can be made during the summer when greenhouse temperatures are too high for red stele infection.

Visitors

Visitor to Brentwood last week was Rev. Fr. J. Bullock, Roman Catholic pastor of Quilicum Beach and Parksville. The visiting priest was a guest of Rev. Frs. Philip Hanley and William Mudge at West Saanichton.

The visitor is well-known in the up-island community where he has been active in many fields. He is also a qualified pilot.

NEW YEAR'S EVE BALL DRAWS LARGE CROWD

A capacity crowd attended the annual New Year's Eve ball in Mahon hall, Ganges, sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary to Canadian Legion Branch 92, Salt Spring Island, which proved the social highlight of the holiday season.

Miss Elsy Price was general convener of the affair, with supper arrangements in charge of Mrs. Al. Taylor, assisted by Mrs. C. Elliott, Mrs. A. R. Price, Mrs. P. Lowther, and L.A. members in serving.

Mrs. A. Wolfe-Milner was responsible for setting the individual party tables throughout the hall and stage, while the outstanding decorations on the tables were made by Mrs. M. Munro assisted by Mrs. L. Anderson. Gay little "ice buckets" of gold contained tiny "champagne bottles" nestled in "ice", with pink streamers putting the finishing touch.

Mahon hall was beautifully decorated, under the direction of Mrs. D. Fanning and featured rose colored broom, greenery, and masses of colored balloons. Two enormous candles flanked the stage which had a large Happy New Year sign.

Jack Richardson was at the door, and music by the Robert Cody orchestra of Victoria was much enjoyed.

SUCCESSFUL DANCE STAGED

Very well attended and enjoyable New Year's dance was held at Galiano hall on December 31, under the auspices of the Galiano Club.

Silvey's orchestra provided the music and the New Year was ushered in with noise-makers and caps for everyone. Refreshments were then served.

Door prize went to D. Weatherell and spot prize was won by Mrs. G. Georgeson, Jr., and Bob Hepburn. Elimination prize was taken by Mrs. F. Brown and Terry Lorenz. Other prize winners were Mrs. E. Lorenz, E. W. Lee, Fred Crompton and A. Lockwood.

News of their first great-grandson came to Mr. and Mrs. G. Robinson of Fulford. The baby was born in Vancouver on December 31, and weighed seven pounds four ounces. The happy parents are Mr. and Mrs. Neil McLean of Vancouver.

Miss Charlotte Gardner of Vancouver was the guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Gardner, of the Nelly. Miss Gardner returned to Vancouver on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Grant entertained a number of friends at their home on Friday evening. A most enjoyable time was spent and competitions and charades kept everyone busy. Refreshments were served during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. House and family have returned to their home on the Isabella Point Road this week. They spent Christmas and New Year's with their relations in Vancouver.

Miss Helen Ruckle and D. Henry Ruckle of Beaver Point have returned to Victoria, where they will resume teaching at McKenzie Elementary school and Lansdowne school.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Kaye and two children, Wayne and Marlene, of Ladysmith, and Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lawson and their two children, Leanne and Tracey, of Duncan, spent Christmas and New Year holidays with Mr. and Mrs. C. Kaye. Also visiting the Kayes at Christmas were Mr. and Mrs. W. Lawson of Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Hepburn entertained many friends at a New Year's Eve party at their residence. Square dancing and cards were enjoyed, and supper was served at midnight.

Howard and Bruce Grant returned to U.B.C. this week after spending the Christmas and New Year holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Grant.

Black twin lambs were born on the estate of Mr. and Mrs. T. Shore, Isabella Point Road, on January 1.

Mrs. G. Reynolds and son, Jack, returned home after spending a few days in Vancouver, where they visited.

The mallard is considered to be the most popular of the ducks.

New Year Is Welcomed At Fulford Hall

There was a good attendance at Fulford hall on New Year's Eve, as merry makers flocked to enjoy the last of the old year, and welcome in the new. Tom Hunt's orchestra from Victoria supplied the music.

A sudden storm threatened delay in transportation early in the evening between Swartz Bay and Fulford, but the wind died down in time and all arrived safely, thanks to a passenger launch from Fulford.

Colored lights and gay decorations, favors and noisemakers and funny hats greeted all who attended the dance. Dave Slingsby was M.C., and a happy evening was spent.

The crowd joyfully noised out the old 1958 and shouted in 1959 at midnight. Supper was served in the decorated dining room below. Members of the hall committee and others helped to serve.

Mr. and Mrs. W. White left Sunday to spend a few days in Victoria.

A baby daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. H. Auchterlonie on December 31. She is the last of the centennial babies to be born in the Gulf Islands.

Commission Opens Hearings For Vancouver Island

B.C.'s three-man Royal Commission on Education will hold its 10th group of public hearings in Victoria on January 22 and 23, commission chairman Dean S. N. F. Chant announced.

Hearings will take place in Oak Bay junior high school beginning at 9.30 a.m. and 2 p.m. The hearing scheduled for January 23 will be held only if required.

The commission, established in January, 1958, to investigate all educational matters up to the university level except finance, will question those who have submitted briefs in advance.

Five copies of briefs should be in the hands of Dean Chant at the University of British Columbia at least two weeks in advance of the hearings. Individuals or organizations who wish to put their views to the commission will also be heard and briefs may be submitted after the public hearing, Dean Chant added.

TOPICS

Topics to be discussed at the Victoria hearings will include the basic aims of the B.C. educational system, curriculum and courses of study, text books, reports to parents, discipline and utilization of school facilities.

Members of the commission are: Dean Chant, chairman; John Liersch, vice-president of the Powell River Company, and R. P. Walrod, manager of B.C. Tree Fruits Ltd., Kelowna.

MORE ABOUT BOOK REVIEW

To the modern motorist who sees a car purely as a means of transportation and who scorns an older car for the social distinction it lacks, the book is of little interest. To the reader who is interested in cars and their history it brings out many anecdotes which will be new to them.

It is, however, somewhat in keeping with the hi-fi unit recently described by a fond owner. "Strictly for nuts," he explained. "I'm a nut."

The exponent of aged cars is another type of nut. The writer is one. A decade ago he possessed a 1909 Britton which was the pride of his eye.

It is a good book, but it appeals to a strictly limited readership. — F.G.R.

Has Christmas Changed?

By MURIEL WILSON

Grandchildren are charming, amusing, wonderful, burning with genius and many more fine qualities but they are not restful. After a lovely and thoroughly satisfying four-day Christmas visit with our beloved grandchildren we are back home getting rested. What a good thing that we have our children when we are young, when energy and endurance are at their peak.

Five-year-old Linda said that she was "very so glad" that it was Christmas. That expression is just right for my feeling at the moment—I am "very so glad" that Christmas is over for another year. Not that the whole thing wasn't enjoyable but after the excitement of anticipation and fulfillment I am more than content to be sweeping out the pine needles and putting the red candles away.

PIN FEATHERS

I am not going to say that Christmas is not as good as it used to be. I can't say that I enjoyed cleaning and picking a million pin feathers out of yesteryears' turkeys more than I enjoyed buying the beautiful eviscerated, plastic jacketed birds we now get. I am not going to say that I liked the popcorn-hung tree with the clipped-on wax candles better than the safe electrically lighted trees of today. But one can not help being amazed at the way Christmas has changed.

Besides the lights and the expensive glitter of ornaments, the Christmas tree is hardly recognizable . . . the pungent evergreen has been replaced with the spun glass tree or sprayed with fantastic colors. The other day I read about the Christmas trees of the Hollywood stars—one was sprayed black and hung with all-gold ornaments, another done in lavender and decorated with purple orchids. Yes, Christmas has changed but I'll not complain as long as the essentials remain—the Christ in Christmas and the wonder and awe in the eyes of little children when they behold the glittering tree with the bounty of Santa piled underneath.

THEY HOLD SECRET

In this world of stark realities it is sometimes difficult to believe in magic or in anything we can't explain. Only children hold the secret. After a few days in the company of children we have to believe that magic—real magic is happening all around us. Magic to an adult is so commonplace that we take it for granted—the birth of a baby, the tadpole into a frog, the apple blossom into an apple, the wind in the trees. To children it's all magic, it's accepted even though not understood. The way Santa comes down the chimney is the same magic that makes the sun appear and disappear night and morning. A sense of wonder is one of the most valuable gifts of all, for with it everything is exciting and marvellous, no day is dull, no day without its magic.

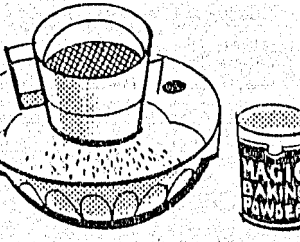

ANOTHER YEAR

And now another year has passed into the warm world of memory. In bold type we now write 1959. As always the prospect of the new year is bright with hope and reasonable enthusiasm for the 365 untried, un-

Children Of Galiano School Present Their Annual Concert

Annual Galiano school concert was held at the hall on Thursday, Dec. 18. Playing to a packed house, the children put on a sparkling program, which pleased old and young alike.

Program opened with "O Canada", and till the final number was a credit to the teachers, Miss E. Gardner and Mrs. H. Shopland.

Murray Case gave the welcoming recitation, followed by two choruses by the class. Next a recitation by grades I and II, then a playlet, "Santa Goes Shopping", by the primary class. A lullaby by the girls of primary room, was followed by a dance, "Pop Goes The Weasel", by girls of grades III, IV and V, accompanied by Karen Atkinson on the piano.

GROUP ACTS
A tableau, "We Three Kings of Orient Are", included soloists Faye Riddell, Karen Atkinson, and Melodie Dyer. Play by the senior room was next, called "Sparkie's Home-work". Melodie Dyer gave a recitation, and the program closed with "Waltzing Matilda" and "Silent Night" by the whole school.

SENIORS DECORATE
The hall was decorated by the children of the senior room, and the Christmas tree by Mesdames S. Page, A. Sater, and R. Hepburn. Others assisting were: pianist, Mrs. Scoones; announcer, Miss Eileen Lorenz; stage director, Miss Margaret Staub; back stage helpers, Mrs. W. Campbell, Misses Joan and Anne Kolosoff, and Tim Bambrick.

After the concert, Santa appeared and gave every child a present, following which refreshments were served.

CURDLED CUSTARD
If the custard has curdled try beating it very hard. If this does not help rub it through the sieve and cook again. There will be a loss in quantity but that is better than a complete loss.

ENTERTAIN IN HONOR OF VISITORS HERE

A delightful evening was spent during the holiday season at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. M. Lamb, when they entertained friends in honor of Mr. and Mrs. T. Rixon, Port Angeles.

The tastefully-decorated rumpus room added much to the enjoyment of the guests taking part in square dancing. A recital was also given on the "Ballad" by Mrs. P. Cartwright. Several pictures were taken by Mrs. T. Gurney during the evening.

Many Ganges neighbors enjoyed the opportunity of entertaining the Washington visitors.

Mrs. S. R. Gibbs and Mrs. L. C. Campbell assisted the hostess with the refreshments. The guests included: Mr. and Mrs. T. Rixon, Mr. and Mrs. P. Cartwright, Mr. and Mrs. B. Greenough, Mr. and Mrs. J. Fredrick, Mr. Denis St. Denis, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. W. Young, Mr. and Mrs. A. Wolfe-Milner, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Gibbs, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hawksworth, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. W. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. J. MacNulty, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Horel.

ANNUAL VISIT

S.E.S. Discovery of Bellingham made its third annual Christmas visit to the Gulf Islands on Saturday, Dec. 20. A large crowd was at the Hope Bay wharf to greet it. Capt. D. Wight, Sea Cadets, and the J.C.'s greeted the residents while Santa Claus handed out goodies to the children. The trip is sponsored by the Bellingham Chamber of Commerce and the Bellingham Sea Cadets.

Ladies' Group Hears Address On First Ottawa Parliament

H.M.S. Ganges Chapter, I.O.D.E., met in the Legion hall, Ganges, on January 2, with the regent, Mrs. H. C. Giegerich, presiding. The treasurer's report showed a balance of $154.04. Mrs. J. H. B. Fredrick was welcomed as a new member.

Miss A. Wheeler, services convener, reported that 26 Christmas parcels had been packed for local families and individuals. These were valued at approximately $180 and were largely made up of home cooking.

Empire and world affairs convener, Mrs. T. Mouat had prepared an interesting paper on the First Canadian Parliament, which was read to the meeting by Miss Helen Dean.

Principal business of the meeting was the nomination by ballot of officers and conveners for the coming year.

Seeks Auxiliary Power Plant For Salt Spring Island Consumers

Salt Spring Islander, F. N. Newham has asked the B.C. Power Commission for the provision of an auxiliary plant for the island. Following is the text of his letter to the commission in Victoria.

"Seven power failures in 27 days! Quite a record! But we, gentlemen, being a poor consumer and relying on power, or electricity, for light, heat and water, do not appreciate such a record. Hence, we have the following suggestion to make to you that will, in part, alleviate our discomfort:

"That you immediately put idle customers, in the vulnerable position that we are, with an auxiliary power plant of sufficient capacity to take care of our requirements when your power fails; further, that this be done at your expense. This we regard as a most fair and reasonable proposal.

"We write this letter in all seriousness as the situation has become sufficiently serious so that we will be compelled to install such auxiliary plant ourselves, if you fail to do so.

"Of course, your answer may be: 'Go ahead and do so; what do we care!' And, do you know, we are inclined to think that this will be your attitude.

A FEW MILLIONS
"Granted, our proposition would cost money, but what does that mean to your commission? A few millions here and there! Phew!

MRS. W. HELE IS CALLED BY DEATH ON CHRISTMAS DAY AT GANGES

Mrs. Edith Hele, beloved wife of William Hele, passed away at their home on Upper Ganges Road, Salt Spring Island, on December 25, after a lengthy illness.

Funeral services were held at St. Mark's church, Salt Spring Island, on December 29, with Ven. Archdeacon C. H. Holmes officiating. Pallbearers were H. Caldwell, G. St. Denis, Col. Z. Kropinski, G. C. Monat, W. Palmer and J. Stevens. Mrs. W. Palmer was at the organ for the singing of "Abide with me", "Unto the hills around" and the "23rd Psalm". Haywards were in charge of arrangements. Interment was at the family plot in Union cemetery, at Central.

Mrs. Hele leaves her husband, William, and three children: William Robert, of Victoria; Mrs. Q. Russell, Vancouver; and Mrs. Sadie McKay, Cumberland, and 11 grandchildren.

ACTIVE CHURCHWOMAN

Mrs. Hele was born on Salt Spring of the former's brother, Robert Carlin of Salmon Arm, B.C., to Miss Clare Harrington, R.N., of Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Crofton and family, Victoria, spent Christmas at Harbour House.

Island and lived most of her life there. Her family was raised and educated on the island. She was a very active member of the Anglican W.A. before her illness. Plants and flowers were of great interest to her and she was always generous with slips to admiring friends.

Mrs. Hele was fond of music and for her birthday last October, friends dropped in for an afternoon of singing, to surprise her. Until recent years, she assisted her husband in delivering the rural mail on Salt Spring Island.

FRESH PARSLEY

Put the parsley into an airtight glass jar and then place in the refrigerator; it will stay green and fresh for a long time. This is a much more successful method than trying to keep it in water, where it always turns yellow within a day or so.

RATE INCREASE OPENS DOOR TO BIG EXPANSION OF TELEPHONE SERVICES ANNOUNCES PRESIDENT

B.C. Telephone Co. exchange and long distance rates will be increased by an overall average of approximately 11 per cent effective January 1.

This is the result of a judgment handed down by the Board of Transport Commissioners for Canada on December 24 following a hearing on the company's application in Vancouver, December 8, 9 and 10.

The judgment authorizes the company to increase rates to provide additional annual revenues of $5,225,000, or about 91 per cent of that requested in the application. Of this total, approximately $4,500,000 will come from exchange revenue and $725,000 from long distance revenue.

CONTINUE PLANS

"The judgment will allow the company to continue with its construction plans requiring the expenditure of $48,000,000 in B.C. during 1959," C. H. McLean, president, said in commenting on the board's decision.

"This will bring the company's construction expenditures during 1958 and 1959 to a total of $100,000,000. "The increase is in many respects the finalization of rates which were requested by the company early this year."

Mr. McLean said that the company's April 2, 1958, application—the first in five years—requested increased rates in order to "recover the heavy increase in wages and other operating expenses" during those years. "A small award amounting to $1,300,000 per annum was made effective August 1 to enable the company to quickly recover in part the cost of the 1958 wage increase dated April 1."

SERIOUS DELAY

The president said the nine-month delay in obtaining the necessary relief "has had a serious effect upon the company's 1958 earnings which have not been sufficient to take care of full dividend requirements. However, with the new rates approved, the company looks forward to a more successful year in 1959."

"The company is not only pleased that it can continue to contribute to the economy of British Columbia by carrying on its full construction plans, but is gratified that it was able for five years to hold the line against rising costs."

Increases in exchange rates will range from five cents in the smaller exchanges for individual residence service to 75 cents monthly in Vancouver and from 90 cents for individual business service in the smaller exchanges to $3.30 in Vancouver.

Increases in two-party residence service will range from 30 cents in the smaller exchanges to 60 cents in Vancouver, with a reduction of 10 cents in certain exchanges with limited hours of service.

In the case of multi-party residence service, increases will range from 30 cents in the smaller exchanges to 50 cents in Vancouver, with a reduction of 15 cents in the case of exchanges having limited hours of service.

Basic long distance rates will be increased by five cents on station-to-station day calls over 26 miles, and increases will vary on other types of calls.

the imagination of those who wished to give to help others in the holiday season, it soon came to be a Christmas symbol of The Salvation Army. For in The Salvation Army, Christmas is truly the observance of the birthday of Christ, and the giving of gifts to those who might otherwise be forgotten is part of a year-round devotion to work in his name among the less-fortunate.

For more than 60 years out of the bright red kettle has come happiness for millions at Christmas.

The tallest Christmas tree on record was a 212-foot Douglas fir set up in 1950 in Northgate, a suburb of Seattle, Washington. It displayed 3,500 colored lights.

ANNUAL APPEAL

Kettles of Salvation Army Are Legacy of Soup Kitchen

For many, a first real tingle of Christmas excitement is inspired by the sound of ringing bells at downtown street corners, and the appearance of Salvationists in their familiar uniforms, "manning" the Christmas Kettles.

As traditionally a part of the Christmas scene as mistletoe and holly, the Christmas Cheer Kettles cannot be taken for granted. They have an exciting history.

It all began on a stormy night shortly before Christmas, 1894. On the Pacific Coast, near San Francisco, a ship was driven onto the rocks by the wind. Shivering survivors were helped to shelter in a nearby Salvation Army building.

Since California, along with the rest of the nation, was in the grip of a severe depression, The Salvation Army was hard put to care for the ship-wrecked people; in the shelter already were many impoverished seamen and longshoremen.

The food supply was soon exhausted and the situation began to look desperate. Then one of the Salvation Army lassies, ladling out the last few spoonfuls of soup, had an ingenious idea. Stepping out into the bitter cold, she carried the soup cauldron itself to a busy street corner, set up a sign that said "Keep the Kettle Boiling", and rang a bell to attract attention. Those passing by—amused by the little sign—began to drop coins into the kettle and that night there was soup enough for all.

By the following year, word of the appeal of the kettle had spread. When Christmas time came around, 30 kettles were set up in towns along the west coast to obtain needed help for the poor. In 1897 the idea found its way to Boston where the kettles were "kept boiling" and 150,000 Christmas dinners were given to the needy there.

Since the kettle seemed to capture

Impressive New Headquarters For School District on Sidney Site

INFORMAL CEREMONY AS

NEW SCHOOL ADMINISTRATION OFFICE IS FORMALLY ACCEPTED BY CHAIRMAN HELPS FROM CONTRACTOR

New school board office in Sidney was formally accepted and put into commission last week. During the day it was open to the public and a number of ratepayers visited the building to examine and approve it.

Erected by Andreas Boas, the building is modern in its conception and the broad windows, coupled with extensive artificial lighting provide for bright working conditions.

The lobby of the building is divided off from the main office area, while the secretary's office and the board room open off the main section.

The building incorporates a kitchen and auxiliary office space in addition to a strong room. It is heated by oil from a floor-level furnace.

The structure was erected at a cost of $16,000. It covers approximately 1,800 square feet.

ACCEPTED

The new building was formally accepted by the chairman of the board of trustees, J. D. Helps. Present at the brief ceremony were the trustees of the district, a representative of the department of education and two school inspectors besides Inspector B. Thorsteinsson. Also in attendance were former trustees G. L. Chatterton, now serving as reeve of Saanich and Mrs. H. J. MacDonald, now a resident of Vancouver. Both trustees had been closely associated with the project when plans were first made for a new school building.

The need for a new office building was urged by trustees about three years ago when the last school building referendum was prepared. Plans were laid to establish the building on property adjacent to that owned by Sidney village at the V.L.A. subdivision. This project was later abandoned when trustees

TRUSTEES ARE INVITED TO SPEAK OUT

Board of trustees of Saanich School District has been invited to submit a brief on education to the royal commission enquiring into many aspects of education in British Columbia.

The board is currently considering the matter, but has as yet taken no action in summarizing any views it may intend to place before the commission.

In the meantime a number of local responsible groups are considering the matter and it is expected that a number of briefs will be presented to the commission, whether individually or collectively.

questioned whether Sidney was the most suitable location.

For more than two years it was a case of "on again . . . off again, Finnegan". Finally it was decided to locate the building in Central Saanich on the grounds that Central Saanich was the most central section of the school district and that there would be less grounds for argument.

In due course difficulty was experienced in finding the site for the building and Sidney was once again examined. The site of the original building was selected on the grounds that it would represent less capital outlay than the purchase of more property.

Victoria firm of wreckers, Ross and Paige, will shortly commence with the demolition of the old building, a converted residence. The destruction of the old building will mark the end of an era. In turn, residence, entertainment centre for

Modern New Building

Clean, modern lines characterize the new administration building of Saanich School District on Third St. in Sidney. The large windows provide for good lighting and the various types of finish inside and out relieve the monotony of long walls.

There's Nothing Finer . . . Than a Fine, Finished Floor!

The standards already set by Madsen in the district's better homes are to be found in the new School Board Office of course! We are proud to have people say: "Those are Madsen Floors".

MRS. SARAH WEBB REACHES 91ST BIRTHDAY

A family gathering was held on New Year's Day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Spear, Lochside Drive, to celebrate the 91st birthday of Mrs. Spear's mother, Mrs. Sarah Webb. Born in Liverpool, England, Mrs. Webb lived for many years in Toronto and Ottawa, before moving to Sidney 10 years ago. She lives with Mr. and Mrs. Spear.

Others present at the celebration were Mrs. Webb's granddaughter, Mrs. Vivian Cowan, and two great-grandchildren, Jill and Barry Cowan.

The little metal trumpets decorating Christmas trees date from early Danish custom of blowing in the Yule with four hymns representing the four corners of the world.

NEW YEAR IS WELCOMED AT MANY GAY PARTIES —Farewell To '58

Four major gatherings and several house parties were held in North and Central Saanich to welcome the arrival of the new year, 1959.

At Saanichton Agricultural hall, a large crowd of revellers attended a dance presented by the Central Saanich Volunteer Firemen's Association, while in North Saanich the Saanich Peninsula branch of the Canadian Legion staged a party for members and guests.

In Sidney, main event was the dance staged at SANSCHA hall, attended by more than 250 persons. Decoration of the hall was in the hands of SANSCHA committees, which were assisted by the North Saanich Garden Club. B. V. Lawton, Sidney fisherman, donated several large pieces of new nylon fish net, which he installed himself as a permanent fixture in the hall, to be used in the future for overhead balloon distribution.

Two out-of-town visitors were prominent among those who volunteered their services to prepare the hall. They were Mrs. Gwen Wainwright of Vancouver, who was visiting prominent SANSCHA worker Mrs. G. B. Sterne, and Madeleine Smith, who, with her parents, came from Trinidad to spend a holiday in Sidney.

Sidney unit of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada also presented a party for its members. More than 130 guests attended the festivities at the organization's Fourth St. hall.

Winter Weather Brief

Northeast winds and five inches of snow over the week-end assured that the new year was destined to remind the district that winter was still here.

Sudden drop in temperatures on Thursday evening, New Year's Day caught a few residents napping and on Friday morning plumbers and garages were inundated with customers. Garages report comparatively few motorists seriously affected by the sudden cold spell. A number of residents awoke on Friday morning to find their water supplies frozen off and at least one homeowner discovered his bathroom sink on the floor. The ice in the pipes had lifted it off its mountings.

Biggest surge of business went to garages as drivers swarmed in for antifreeze and batteries to combat the cold.

Northeast winds brought the mercury to 18 degrees at Patricia Bay Airport on Friday morning. The lowest figure marked up over the week-end freeze at the airport was 16 degrees, while at the Experimental Station the thermometer read 17.5 degrees at its lowest point on Saturday.

Cancel Conferences

Child health conferences in Sidney have been cancelled for the month of January, officials of the Saanich and South Vancouver Island Health Unit announced this week. Next conference will be held at the unit's office on Fourth St., on Tuesday, Feb. 10.

The public is also advised that if no answer is made to phone calls to the office, Mrs. J. R. Abbot, office assistant, may be reached at her home number, 331-M.

were fuel dealers. Delivery trucks were running about the district serving oil furnaces throughout the week-end, reported one dealer, with the last man home at midnight on Sunday.

The snow commenced falling on Sunday evening and the entire area was blanketed by Monday morning, with drivers sliding freely over the roads. Snow tires were at a premium and many motorists were bringing out chains which had lain unused for several years.

More than 100 skaters were counted Sunday on a two-acre pond on the property of James Gardner, Heather Road. Other popular spots were ponds on land owned by E. H. Munro, Munro Ave., and on the Moses farm, West Saanich Road.

All the fun came to an end, however, early Tuesday morning, when an expected six-inch snowfall failed to arrive, and was replaced by rain and higher temperatures.

Store Opening Well Attended In Sidney

More than 200 persons visited Elizabeths' Style Shop, Sidney, when the shop opened under the new management of Mrs. A. W. Sharp on Tuesday, Jan. 6.

Operated for several years by its founder, Harold Fox, the store was recently acquired by Mrs. Sharp and her husband, who is Sidney village clerk.

Representatives of a Victoria radio station recorded highlights of the opening and interviewed many of the first customers, with the recording being broadcast later in the day.

"We've had a wonderful day, and we are very grateful for the support shown by the people of the district," Mrs. Sharp said Tuesday night.

President of Island Legion Branch Passes

Walter Byron Kay, president of Gulf Islands Branch No. 84, Canadian Legion, and for many years a resident of Saturna Island, passed away at Veterans' hospital, Victoria, on Monday, Jan. 5.

The late Mr. Kay, who was 62 years of age, is survived by his wife, Ruby, at home; one sister, Mrs. W. Walsh of Cranbrook; and three brothers, Harold "Bud" Kay of Sidney, Harry Roy of Vancouver, and Frank Roy.

Funeral services will be held at Sands Funeral Chapel, Sidney, on Thursday, Jan. 8, at 1 p.m., with Rev. Richard N. Mugford officiating. Interment will be at Royal Oak Burial Park.

INADEQUATE WIRING ONE OF NATION'S TOP FIRE HAZARDS

"The fire was caused by faulty wiring." How often have you read this at the bottom of a newspaper account of some fire?

It's inevitable, perhaps, in this electrical age, that circuits in many older homes should become overloaded with the many appliances in use today. A good idea is to call in your electrician and get him to check over the wiring in your home. And now is the time to do it, when he's not tied up with outdoor construction.

Of course, there's always the chance that you haven't the ready cash to repair or replace your present wiring. That's where Alan Spooner, manager of the Sidney branch of the Bank of Montreal, might help you with a home improvement loan.

Home improvement loans are available at the B of M at the low rate—one half of one per cent interest per month—and can be used for all kinds of worthwhile repairs and improvements. If you have wiring worries on your mind, it will pay you to have a chat with Mr. Spooner at the B of M today.
